the EAGLE

To Know, To Love, and To Serve God in His Church and Our Community.

2018 Synod of Bishops Showcases the CYO and CAO Mission is the Church’s Future: Young People, Faith, and Vocational Discernment

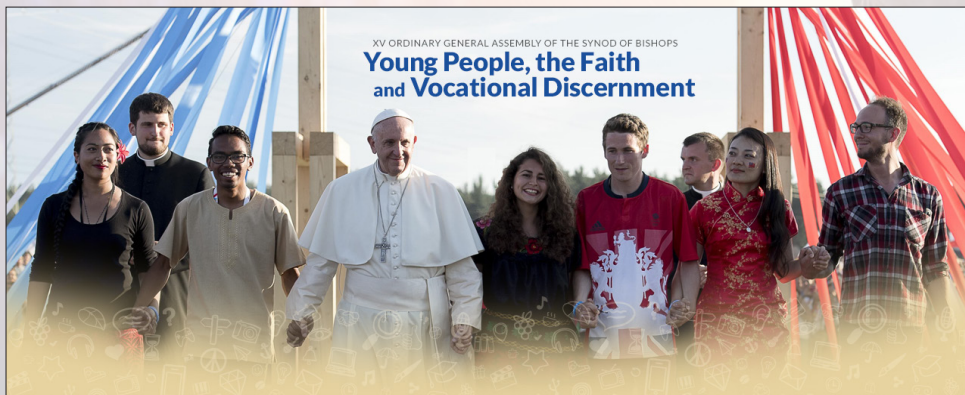

Some of you may remember the 2015 Synod of the Catholic Church, in which the Bishops and leaders of the Church met to discern the future of engaging families with our faith. One of the results of that meeting was an essential document for our Parish Family here at Saint John the Evangelist, AMORIS LAETITIA, or The Joy of Love. Our openness, our welcoming and loving environment here at St. John, follows Pope Francis’ call to proclaim the love of our faith joyously, with our words and our actions as a parish, “the family of families” (AMORIS LAETITIA, 202). The next Synod will be occurring this coming October, and this time the focus will be on “Young People, Faith, and Vocational Discernment.” As with the last Synod, major international sociological and theological issues will be discussed about how the church will grow (or contract) as young people, those between the youth and full adulthood, in their societies are supported by the Church and integrated into our communities.

In preparation for this essential moment in our faith progress, the Catholic Church has publicly released the Pre-Synod Working Document (INSTRUMENTUM LABORIS), which lays out the planned discussion topics. It is astronomical just how similar this document is to Father John’s vision for our Parish Family, which bore the ideas of resurrecting Catholic Youth Organization and the newly formed Catholic

2018 Synod of Bishops

Adult Organization. From reaching out to the Young Adult community, providing them artistic and sports opportunities to focusing their leadership and capability in service actions and mentoring youth, it reads like a manifesto of our Parish Family's efforts. Young Adults need our experienced community to support, mentor, and accompany them when they are away from their own families. They need our ministries to give them opportunities to grow, lead, and expand our horizons, especially when it comes to finding their vocation, which does not mean only ordination as priests, brothers, or sisters.

Here are some key sections of the INSTRUMENTUM LABORIS that illustrate clearly we are on the right path:

26. As the Pre-synodal Meeting has effectively highlighted, young generations are the bearers of a particular approach to reality, that is an asset and a source of originality; however, it can also be disconcerting or perplexing to adults. We need to avoid hasty judgements, though. Their approach is based on the priority of concreteness and action over theoretical analysis. It is not blind activism and contempt for the intellectual dimension: in the way young people spontaneously act, things are understood by doing and problems are solved as they arise.

33. Young people noticeably like teamwork and are good at it, which is an asset in many situations. Sometimes this openness clashes with excessive authoritarianism on the part of adults and ministers: "On many occasions, young people have difficulty finding a space in the Church where they can actively participate and lead. Young people interpret their experience of the Church as one where they are considered too young and inexperienced to lead or make decisions as they would only make mistakes" (Pre-synodal Meeting 7). It is equally clear that, wherever young people are involved and appreciated, the style and dynamism of the Church acquire a powerful vitality that is able to draw people's attention.

36. As a great many Bishop Conferences point out, music is a fundamental language for young people: it is the soundtrack of their lives, in which they are constantly plunged, and it contributes to the formation of their identity in a way that the Church seldom explores in depth, despite having a general awareness of its importance. Music elicits emotions, involving people also physically; it opens up spaces of interiority and favors their communication. It also conveys messages, as well as lifestyles and values that are consistent with or alternative to the ones promoted by other forms of education. In some youth cultures, the music world can become a kind of safe haven that is inaccessible to adults. Due to its power, the music world can easily be influenced and manipulated also by business, or even speculative, interests.

38. Albeit less pervasive than music, the enjoyment of many other forms of artistic expression plays a fundamental role in the formation of young people's personal and social identity: painting, sculpture, film-making, the visual arts, dance, theater, photography, comics, graphic design, web art, writing, poetry, literature, etc. When they are actively practiced, they allow young people to exercise their personal creativity and participate in cultural expression, in particular through experimental initiatives which rely on the increasing use of new technology. Forms of artistic expression that are tied to folk and local traditions are very interesting, especially those associated with ethnic minorities, since they connect young people with the legacy of the past and provide opportunities for cultural activity, irrespective of education levels or the availability of technical or technological tools.

39. Sport is another significant area of growth and dialogue for young people, in which the Church is investing in many parts of the world. Pope Francis sees sport as being part of informal education, and calls for more action in this domain to offset the intellectual impoverishment of formal education (cf. Address to the participants in the World Congress on "Educating Today and Tomorrow. A Renewing Passion", 21 November 2015). Experts believe our societies have become “sportivized,” and this applies to the world of young people in particular. However, we must question what values and models, beyond all the rhetoric, are promoted in our society through sports activity, which is so often focused on success at all costs, even through deceit, consigning to oblivion the hard work and commitment of defeated athletes.

79. Developing the ability to love remains the beauty and risk of youth, because love, when it is pursued and lived in a chaotic way, can become an unruly passion and a destructive drive that brings only sadness. Evil and sin also dwell in the life of young people, and their request to be welcomed and forgiven is a cry we must heed. One of the best-known parables in the Gospel, that tells the story of two sons and brothers, is the parable of the “merciful father,” but it could also be called the “parable of the father who goes out twice” (cf. Lk 15:11-32): the first time to welcome his younger son after the time of carelessness and unruliness, and the second time to ask the elder son, whose heart is hardened and numb, to come back inside the house to celebrate and share the joy of his brother’s return. The Father in this parable is the true “adult” figure many young people are looking for in their lives and, unfortunately, do not find. This parable refers to a courageous father, who allows his children to experience the risk of freedom, without imposing constraints that mortify their choices. He is a father whose heart is so big he does not exclude anyone, and he wants to reintegrate everyone in his household at the same time. The Church is called to make sure that all the young people she encounters in her path can experience the same fatherly and motherly attitudes.

85. Young people, in the final document of the PM, state: “We seek a Church that helps us find our vocation, in all of its senses” (Pre-synodal Meeting 3). To do so, the meaning of the term “vocation” needs to be clarified. Caring about all young people, without exception, the Synod is asked to shed light in a convincing way on the vocational horizon of human existence as such. The young themselves are asking the Church to help them “find a simple and clear understanding of vocation” (Pre-synodal Meeting 8). From the responses of various BC, and also from many comments made by the young themselves, we understand that the term vocation is generally used to indicate vocations to the ordained ministry and special consecration. One BC argues that “a weak point of pastoral care, in discerning young people’s vocations, is that it limits the notion of vocation only to the choice of the ministerial priesthood or consecrated life.”

86. If we just compare this “narrow” vision to the journey of the two past Synods, where it was said that “marriage is a vocation” and that “the decision to marry and to have a family ought to be the fruit of a process of vocational discernment” (AL 72), it is not difficult to realize that a reductive view of the term “vocation” generates a strong bias amongst young people, who see vocational pastoral care only as an activity whose sole purpose is to “recruit” priests and men and women religious. Starting from this shared ecclesial imagery, there is the need to lay the foundation for a broad “vocational youth pastoral care” that can be meaningful to all young people.

90. The notion of life as a vocation invites human beings to give up the lie of self-creation and the illusion of narcissistic self-realization, to let themselves be involved through history in the plan with which God destines us to one another’s good. Hence, we must promote a renewed vocational culture, that is still linked to the joy of the communion of love that generates life and hope. Indeed, the fullness of joy can only be experienced when we discover we are loved and, consequently, when we are personally called to love others in turn, in the concrete circumstances in which we live (family, work, social, and civil engagement).

141. This dynamism, whereby we go out of ourselves to give our life and work unsparingly so that everyone, individually and collectively, may encounter the joy of love, also characterizes the way the Church exercises the authority entrusted to her, in a way that is truly generative and therefore creates communion. According to some analyses, etymologically speaking, authoritativeness is the capacity to make all creatures grow (augeo, in Latin, hence auctor and auctoritas) in the originality that the Creator conceived and wished for them. Exercising authority means taking on the responsibility to foster development and set freedom free, rather than exercising control that holds people down and keeps them captive.

Discipleship ~ A Journey into God

The Sacred Scriptures of today's mass are threaded together by the theme of God's election. Amos speaks of God's choosing him to prophesy to the people of Israel. St. Paul presents his theological treatise on our spiritual adoption as God's children. Jesus summons the twelve, and instructs them on how they are to conduct themselves on their journey into God. Jesus imparts authority upon his apostles to preach repentance, drive out demons, to anoint, and cure the sick. Their ministry takes them on a journey into the heart and mind of God. The first reading and gospel also remind us that there is a cost to discipleship. The message of the one who is set apart to proclaim the kingdom will not always be accepted. The prophets were killed for their message, so too were the disciples. They gave their very lives for the importance of the message of salvation. Jesus tells the twelve to take nothing for the journey, and invites them to lead a life of simplicity.

Many have been and continue to be invited on this journey into God. Throughout human history, countless men and women have answered God's call to follow in the footsteps of Christ and His apostles. Priests, religious, and lay people have generously given their lives in promoting the gospel in the developed and the developing world. Many have been imprisoned, tortured, and even killed to bring the gospel alive in the midst of poverty and oppression. These people took nothing with them for the journey – just the grace of answering God's call to give selflessly and offer hope.

The Church is still in need of her prophets, healers, teachers, sanctifiers, and preachers. All of us need to promote the vocation to

Reflection Questions

1. How is God calling you to prophesy in the world today?
2. Do you believe God has specifically chosen you and has a purpose for your life?
3. What does "grace" mean to you and how does it manifest itself?
4. What is the ultimate "Truth" of Jesus?
5. What authority has Jesus granted to the Church?
6. What authority has been entrusted to you?
7. How are you being called to serve society?
8. Name the ways you proclaim the gospel.

the priesthood and religious life. We must teach our youth that there is not only value to the material world but value to the spiritual world, as well. The People of God must encourage its young to discern God's will and answer His call to shape the Church of tomorrow. There are great challenges associated with discipleship. We have to acknowledge that there are great blessings, as well. When individuals answer the call to proclaim the good news to the poor, liberty to captives, freedom to the oppressed, and sight to the blind, their lives become expressions of God's unending grace.

It is important to realize that all of us are also chosen as God's elect through the grace of our baptism. Each member of the Church is called to follow Christ in activities of everyday life. We are summoned to discern God's will and respond to His call to love all people unconditionally. We are invited to build the bridge to unending peace and to eliminate poverty through our legislation and sharing our wealth. As Christians, we are called to take nothing for the journey into faith – we are simply asked to rely on the wisdom of God and the gifts that He has given us.

Prayer

Heavenly Father, we know that you have invited us to participate in your divine mission here on earth. Fear can often hinder us in responding to your call. Give us the courage to cast away our fears and fill us with the fire of your love. As we journey into faith, may all of us be aware of your constant presence. Let Your wisdom be the guide to everything we do and say. Amen.

Wisdom of the Fathers

"There is no doubt that the effort to proclaim the Gospel to the people of today, who are buoyed up by hope but at the same time often oppressed by fear and distress, is a service rendered to the Christian community and also to the whole of humanity.

For this reason the duty of confirming the brethren – a duty which, with the office of being the Successor of Peter we have received from the Lord, and which is for us a "daily preoccupation," a program of life and action, and a fundamental commitment of our Pontificate – seems to us all the more noble and necessary when it is a matter of encouraging our brethren in their mission as evangelizers, in order that, in this time of uncertainty and confusion, they may accomplish this task with ever increasing love, zeal, and joy... (Paragraph 1)

.... The Church is an evangelizer, but she begins by being evangelized herself. She is the community of believers, the community of hope lived and communicated, the community of brotherly love, and she needs to listen unceasingly to what she must believe, to her reasons for hoping, to the new commandment of love. She is the People of God immersed in the world, and often tempted by idols, and she always needs to hear the proclamation of the "mighty works of God" which converted her to the Lord; she always needs to be called together afresh by Him and reunited. In brief, this means that she has a constant need of being evangelized, if she wishes to retain freshness, vigor, and strength in order to proclaim the Gospel." (Paragraph 15)

Faith Formation 2018-2019 Registration

Registration for the 2018-2019 Faith Formation year is now open. Registration forms are available in the parish office and can be picked up Monday through Friday any time between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Returning students should pick up yellow packets, while new student packets are white. New students should be registered members of St. John the Evangelist and are required to present their Baptismal certificate at the time of registration. Forms are also available to print and complete from the parish website at www.sjecc.com. Students registering for confirmation classes are also required to provide a copy of their First Communion certificate unless this information is on file at St. John's already. Registration is open until August 31, 2018, after which a slight increase in fees will apply. Over 100 students have already registered, which has been very helpful in planning for materials, instructors, and space for the upcoming program year. We thank you for your prompt response in this regard.

New Catechetical Certification Process Underway

Last program year, we had over 45 Catechist instructors and assistant-instructors who served over 500 students in the program. They dedicated countless hours each week helping children encounter Jesus and our beautiful Catholic Faith traditions. Beginning this summer, and in the coming fall, Catechists will dig deeper into the faith by participating in a certification process within the Diocese of Venice. Catechists will take online courses through Franciscan University in the areas of scripture, morality, social justice, and sacraments. The self-paced tutorials will help Catechists engage in many areas of our faith to provide them with additional tools and support as leaders in our program community. We are excited about this endeavor and welcome new Catechists who would like to get involved in the program. For more information, please contact Natalie Campbell at natalie@sjecc.com.

The Confirmation Journey Continues

As the third sacrament of initiation, confirmation is an exciting time for high school youth to prepare to receive the gifts of the Holy Spirit in the sacrament. In the Diocese of Venice, Confirmation encompasses two years of preparation, typically in ninth and tenth grade. However, each program year often includes students in eleventh and twelfth grade who have not yet received this sacrament. We view the program as a journey, rather than a race. In this way, young adults are afforded the opportunity to explore their faith at a reasonable pace given the myriad of other obligations that occupy time in their lives. Students study the faith, choose sponsors to help them along their journey, and get to know their chosen saint who will provide inspiration to each candidate through extraordinary stories of living the faith.

A factoid from the 2017-2018 class you might find interesting is that the saint most selected by girls was Saint Joan of Arc, while the most selected for boys was Saint Sebastian, patron saint of athletes. Our rising 2018-2019 class are spending some time in between family vacations, work, and other summer activities determining which saint will inspire them on the next leg of their faith journey into adulthood. Our confirmation program is open to ALL high school age youth. We meet on either Sunday evenings or mornings throughout the school year.

Our video-based program, Chosen, by Ascension Press, provides the framework for what will be small-sized formation groups.

A schedule of our upcoming class dates can be found on the parish website. We look forward to seeing everyone in the fall.

Adult Faith Formation and RCIA

A Few Frequently Asked Questions about This Page

What exactly is Adult Faith Formation?

The religious education you may have received as a child was appropriate for a child, but did not prepare you to address the questions you have as an adult. It is difficult to answer the questions posed by our present society with eighth grade answers.

Education presents information and expands understanding of our faith. Formation addresses a deeper spiritual wisdom; a wisdom borne of your life experiences and encompassing your head, heart, and hands. Formation involves making value judgements and applying them to daily life.

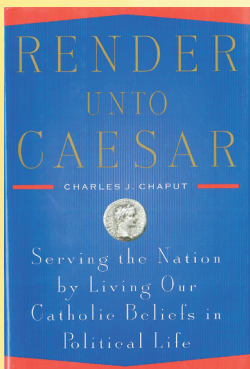

Put in the context of our Parish Mission, education is the “to know,” formation is the “to love.”

I regularly see the letters RCIA, but what do they mean?

They refer to the Rite of Christian Initiation for Adults, the process by which unbaptized adults, and those baptized in another Christian community, explore what it means to be a Catholic and formed in the faith. The first step will begin on October 2nd with a 10-session program that delves into what Catholics believe and why. Contact me now with any questions and to be informed about the details in late August.

I regularly practice my faith, but never was Confirmed. Is it too late?

No. Every spring the bishop comes to St. John to confer the Sacrament of Confirmation on youth and adults. A preparation program will begin on April 7, 2019. Contact me to add your name to the list of interested parishioners.

“Democratic life depends on a people with the reasoning skills to see through the chicanery that often goes with political debate...” (page 141)

As we once again enter another political season, Render Unto Caesar: Serving the Nation by Living Our Catholic Beliefs in Political Life, by Archbishop Charles J. Chaput (Doubleday) is as timely as it was when it was published at the beginning of the 2008 races.

“In response to the chorus of voices that would banish Catholic thought from public life, Chaput has written statement of common sense amply supported by history, public record and fact. His book is nonpartisan and non-scholarly yet highly informative and inspiring, a well-reasoned plea for his readers to find again the courage to be Catholic Christians first – not in opposition to our country, but to serve its best ideals.” – Michael J. Miller, book reviewer

We have found a few copies: they are available in the Parish Office for $3, ONLY as long as they last.

70th Anniversary Blessing

Antonio and Hiverica Pardo, ages 99 and 92 years respectively, were born in the island of Cuba, and married on July 28, 1948, have 2 children, 5 grandchildren, and 6 great grandchildren with one more on the way.

In anticipation of the upcoming Castro revolution, Antonio had the courage and forethought to leave a successful diamond setting business in Cuba to immigrate to and seek employment in New York City, in order to make way for his family. They have lived in the U.S. since then. After living and raising their family in New Jersey, they moved to North Naples, FL, in 1984. They have been faithful parishoners of St. John the Evangelist ever since. Antonio and Hiverica feel blessed to be married 70 years and be able to still enjoy their lives in Naples, Florida, still living in the house they purchased in 1984. They will be joined by their family and friends with a celebration on July 14th followed by an anniversary blessing by Father John on July 15.
